The Police 2016 optical collection is the perfect combination between technology, lightness and a retro-futuristic look. The new styles feature lightweight materials that perfectly match the brand's modern and urban style. The trendy and metropolitan feel of Police stands out in the touch of colour and in the textures of the most daring models, while classic shapes are given a modern twist, making the brand's legendary models fashionable once again.

This style is the optical version of the brand's revolutionary "floating lenses". The special treatment on a single metal sheet conveys an extremely light feel and resistance to the front piece, where the lenses appear to be attached to the frame by small "paper clips".

A light and resistant optical style with a metal frame. The unique 2D texture with a blue linen effect gives a casual and coloured feel. The symbol of the eagle on the front piece expressly recalls the brand's heritage.

Transparencies and material contrasts stand out in this new unisex style. The round front piece in transparent matt acetate "rests" on the metal core, which can be distinguished thanks to this special interplay of colours and transparencies. Transparencies are featured also on the temple tips which become both a functional and aesthetic detail.

The brand's vintage spirit clearly stands out in this square and retro sunwear style, a perfect model for both men and women. The Havana acetate of the upper section and of the temple tips is combined with the golden metal that frames the brown gradient lenses. The bridge and the temples are also in metal, recalling the brand's most legendary models.

This aviator style with double bridge draws inspiration from the brand's most classic models. The metallic wood effect of the frame, resulting from a special laser treatment, gives a remarkably decisive and bold quality to this model.

Colours and shapes make this unisex style extremely modern while its details reveal a retro inspiration. The round lenses and Havana acetate front piece in honey shades are exalted by the double bridge in metal, which has always been the brand's signature detail.
